

Bookmark your Graduate Handbook at

www.grad.uc.edu/file_pdf/handbook.pdf

You will be held accountable for adhering to all policies and procedures and meeting all requirements clarified in your Graduate Handbook.

Refer to it often – always when you take action or have questions related to admission/registration; grades and credit; scholarship, assistantship, or fellowship requirements and entitlements; withdrawals; maintaining your student status (e.g., leaves, registration and time-to-degree requirements); institutional rules pertaining to your master's or doctoral degree; theses and dissertations; graduation, among others.

It is also an excellent resource for support services available to you.

Your faculty advisor can help you with academic issues/requirements, but you should turn to your program director and staff for help with university and program-specific policies and procedures.